Mission Statement

We, the community of St. James, are a prayerful and Eucharistic people who treasure our Catholic traditions. We strive to grow in our faith by being good stewards of the gifts God has given us; sharing God's truth with all. As the Body of Christ, we are called to love and serve everyone, especially the marginalized, with joy and hospitality.

Do You Know?

After taking a walk around our St. James campus on a beautiful late summer day, I was pleased to see that the trees that were planted earlier this year on the parking lot islands and green space survived the hot summer days and are thriving.

If you've noticed the "bags" attached to the tree trunks and wondered what they are, they are watering bags made specifically for new tree plantings. Once filled, they slowly release water to the new trees over a period of several days – an efficient and water saving way to water our trees..

Thank You,
Jim Newell, Operations Manager

Children and Youth Activity Update

Our youths who were trained as Eucharistic Ministers, Ushers, and Lectors on Nerve To Serve Youth Night will be using their newly learned skills at two of the Masses on the Commitment Weekends.

If you attend one of the Masses at which they will be serving, take a few minutes to let them know what an great job they did and thank them for their service.

From the Pastor's Pen

The cool evenings of October are a perfect time to light a bonfire and roast some marshmallows. As the brilliant colors of summer begin to fade into the robust colors of fall it is always a guessing game what reds, oranges and yellows we will see. October for me is a month to shift gears, catch my breath, do some yard work, and pull out the long sleeves.

October is a month to recognize once again the importance of family and how we need the support and love of one another. As a farm family, we grew up with both responsibilities and chores on the farm as well as commitments to school, church, and our community in town. It sometimes was a juggle to accomplish all we wish to do, but somehow we managed. We had the one car, so that meant we all traveled together. It sometimes meant for long days until all the activities were completed and we could head home. How things have changed today with easier access, more activities, and instant contact. But one thing that still remains is the connections and bonds that we build and grow as families.

Family life will always be at the center of who we are. The love of husband and wife and the love they share with bringing children into this world will always remain. In our commitment to one another, we are called to support and encourage one another. As we hear the challenges of the world around us and the many places where families are fleeing for safety and a better way of life, may we continue to pray that families will be safe and find a place of to call home once again.

I hear the stories of parents wanting a better life for their children. This is something we all want. As we seek that better life for our children and ourselves may we never lose sight of what is most important in our lives – our love for one another grounded in the love of Christ and the church. A love that knows no ends and embraces and welcomes all. We each learn that gift of love from our families. May we truly share that gift of love that will last a lifetime.

My prayers are with you today,
Fr. Timothy

This is the last "reflection" weekend. As we approach the first Commitment Weekend on October 17/18, we are called to pray that God blesses our campaign and guides our parish as we seek to do His will.

Included in this Bulletin is an insert illustrating various gift options to consider as you discern your commitment to our future.

Pledge packets were mailed this past week. Please bring your pledge card and envelope to Mass on one of the Commitment weekends. We will complete these cards together, as a community, at homily time.

As you can see on the cover of this Bulletin, Fr. Mike and Fr. Timothy have already taken care of theirs!

Someone is Watching and Wondering

Of the many questions I am asked, one of the most common concerns Mary and the Saints: "Why do Catholics pray to Mary and the Saints?" I usually reply with a question: "Have you ever asked someone to pray for you?" The usual reply is a simple yes. The conversation continues with me asking, "Can you tell me about that time? What was going on in your life?" The stories begin to unfold, and a bond of respect and mutual trust starts forming. After listening to their story, I try to explain how prayer is a conversation with God, similar to the conversation we are having. I acknowledge there are times when we simply cannot find the words to even begin our conversation/prayer with our heavenly father. Perhaps we feel broken, pain, shame, lost, alone, unworthy, or we just don't know how to begin to tell God our story. However, during our struggles, another individual appears with a smiling face, gentle touch, listening ear, or kind gesture, and our words come flooding out. Quite often the telling ends with these words, "will you pray for me?" Are we praying to them instead of God, or are we asking for their intercession?

An integral part of the Mass is the Prayers of the Faithful. It is the time we petition God for blessings, guidance, help and direction, but these prayers are for others, not ourselves. We intercede for one another. We lift our voices as one and plead "Lord hear OUR prayer!" The emphasis is OUR. We, as baptized Christians are part of a great communion of people, including those who have already passed from this earthly life. Catholics use the term "communion of saints," and we believe Mary's answer to God puts her as the first among all others who have subsequently said yes to accepting and following Jesus as the Son of God. As such, she also has a special place in the Church and in our lives. If I might be so bold, I see Mary as the first convert to Christianity, followed closely by Joseph, the apostles, and all those throughout the past 2,000 years who have been uniquely called to live and spread the gospel message of Christ Jesus. It seems perfectly logical, therefore, to call on all these fellow believers to pray for and with me, not just in dire times, but every day; always in all ways. I once heard someone say, "I'm calling out the elite, the special forces when I ask Mary and the saints to pray for me."

It seems to me that the communion of saints is made up of ordinary people, just like me, who have been called by God. Yes, called individually in unique ways to care for all the gifts God provides each and every day since the beginning of time. Some are called to teach, others to heal. Some are called to oversee the welfare of nations, others to care for innocent children. Some are called to the vocation of ordination, others to the vocation of marriage. Some are called to build shelters, schools, hospitals and church buildings. Others are called to build up our knowledge base. All are called to build community, to live with and care for one another. As followers of Jesus, All are called to agape, unconditional love. To me interceding, praying for one another is one part of serving God through serving one another. It also seems to me I need all the help I can get as I try to follow Jesus. Asking Mary and the Saints to pray with me and for me is just another petition to a fellow Christian. I too desire to call on the best to help me get my message to God, my Father in Heaven

I remain, your sister in Christ, Sandy Gagnon

St. James School News

Our Mission Statement

The St. James Catholic School Community, a ministry of the parish, empowers students to achieve their full academic and Christian potential, become prayerful, lifelong learners and good stewards of God's gifts.

SJS Crosscurricular Study!

Our St. James Middle School teachers are always looking for fun new ways to introduce new teaching techniques to our students!

Last week our 8th graders did a cross-curricular study of Pope Francis in Spanish and Religion classes. They studied his early life in Argentina and reflected on his continued humbleness and generosity throughout his leadership of the Catholic Church. They also watched a virtual interview that he gave to underprivileged Catholics around the country. They composed their own questions they would like to ask him if given the opportunity, as well as solutions they have to problems in our country regarding immigration that would reflect his caring nature.

Birthdays this week: Today we celebrate all that you with God's help, have accomplished.
